Diamonds, diamonds, rubies, sapphires, diamonds, diamonds.

No other event inspires celebrities (and their stylists) to go all out in the bling department quite like the Cannes Film Festival. And this year's event didn't disappoint. A-listers, including as Julianne Moore, Elle Fanning, and Jessica Chastain, each donned a series of important statement pieces—lent mainly by European jewelry ateliers, such as Chopard and Boucheron.

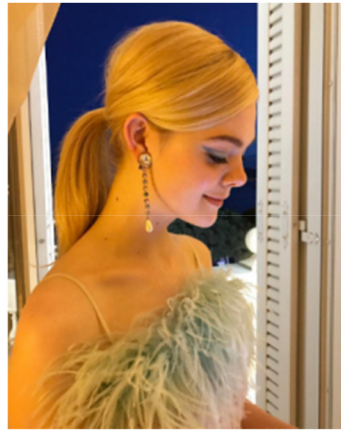

Here are some of my favorite jewelry looks from the event, which wrapped up this past weekend:
