

Trend File: Hoop Dreams

March 17, 2017

Source: JCK Online.com

Hoop earrings are shaping up to be a huge trend for 2017. They popped up all over the Fall 2017 fashion runways and on Hollywood's red carpets this awards season—and have been spotted on all the top style Instagram influencer feeds. Still, you may be thinking: So what? Hoop earrings have always been around... Understandable! But to the young-and-fashionable, who weren't around to rock hoops in the '80s and '90s, the style (especially in oversize iterations) feels absolutely edgy.

Selena Gomez in the latest issue of Vogue wearing Jennifer Fisher hoops (photo courtesy of Instagram/@jenniferfisherjewelry)

Kendall Jenner in hoops this month (photo courtesy of Instagram/@kendalljenner)

So now's the time to take stock (literally) of the hoops you have in-store and augment your basic selection with a few of the many creative takes on the classic hoop style.

Fortunately, there are a plethora of options to be had—at every price point. Here are a handful of styles we've been doing flips over:

Signature hoop earrings, $450; Ritani

Twisted hoops in white gold with diamonds, $3,300; Simon G.

Large Pipe hoop earrings, $445; Jennifer Fisher

Love Knot hoops, $1,500; Finn

Simply Gem hoop earrings with blue topaz, $310; Tacori

Double hoop earring, price upon request; Hirotaka