Sotheby's will auction the Pink Star diamond in Hong Kong next month, more than three years after its previous sale fell through. The oval, 59.60-carat, internally flawless, fancy vivid pink diamond is expected to exceed $60 million, which would rank it among the most valuable diamonds ever sold, according to Sotheby's. It will be on display at the Hong Kong Convention and Exhibition Centre from March 29 to April 3 before going under the hammer on April 4.
